PRE-OPERATIVE MEDICATIONS TO AVOID BEFORE SURGERY

To prepare for your surgery or procedure, we ask you to avoid certain medicines, including aspirin and aspirin-like products, non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents, and other medicines or supplements.

We recommend refraining from these medications and/or supplements two weeks before your planned procedure.

You may take acetaminophen (Tylenol) as needed for minor aches and pains.

The lists in this handout are not complete. Other products or supplements may also cause bleeding problems or other issues.

For patients who have had cardiac stents or other heart surgery in the past year, talk with your cardiologist (heart doctor) before you stop taking any aspirin product or clopidogrel (Plavix).

The lists in this handout are not complete. Other products or supplements may also cause bleeding problems.

Avoid these Products 2 weeks Before and After Surgery
